We Are Proud Republicans

LINDA PHIPPS

PRESIDENTS MESSAGE

Here we are in November of 2015, a year away from the election of another President. With hard work and perseverance we can help a worthy Republican into the White House. Which one is yet to be decided, but after listening to the Democrat's debate tonight, it is clear that anyone of the candidates on the Republican slate would be a better choice. We must reach out to the Republican voters; remind them of the importance their vote has in the upcoming elections and convince them to share that message everywhere they go and with everyone they know. We can't afford to have registered Republican voters who don't vote. The Democrats are out there beating the bushes for voters to register. As I have said before, we will be asking you for help as the election campaigns are narrowed and our candidate for President is determined. If there is an area that needs help and you have the talent needed, please say yes and join our crusade.

Another milestone this month is the 65th Anniversary of the WHRFW. We will be celebrating this event at our November meeting; be sure to join us as we will also have fabulous vendors offering unique ideas to help with your holiday gift list. Fun and shopping, what else could you hope for!!!

Your board has gone above and beyond this year and I can't praise them enough. We've had some very informative programs; our membership has grown with 64 new members; we've registered some new voters; increased our operating budget; thanks to ways and means; a generous donation of vintage clothing from Virginia Halpape; our silent auctions and the monthly opportunity drawings ticket sales(all prizes are donated). Donations to our Scholarship Fund via personal, fun bingo events and other gracious gifts keep our fund strong and ready to support the next Scholarship candidates we sponsor. Our members are able to learn more by going to Conventions, joining grass roots groups and attending our monthly meetings. We love your enthusiasm.

Stay Strong - We Can Win

1st VP Program

During her nearly three decades of service to the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, Kathryn Barger has promoted numerous initiatives to better serve the residents of Los Angeles County and the 5th Supervisorial District, including:

Implementation of "Megan's Law", to ensure that all residents of Los Angeles County have access to information about registered sex offenders;

Providing vital mental health, public health and housing resources to Foster youth seeking education and self-sufficiency;

Diverting individuals with non-violent drug offenses and chronic substance abuse disorders to treatment, not jail;

Spearheading anti-fraud policy changes for welfare recipients applying for General Relief benefits;

Supporting families of the chronically mentally ill, including expansion of programs and services made available by the "Mental Health Services Act.";

Implementing Life-saving program ("Laura's Law") requiring mentally ill individuals to continue with needed treatment to prevent unnecessary hospitalizations;

Revamping Social service programs to conform with President Clinton's Welfare Reform;

Helped develop a Countywide restaurant grading system to inform patrons of the health standards at local eateries;

Developing Mental Evaluation Team that joins Mental Health experts with Sheriff's Deputies to better address the needs of the mentally ill when they interact with law enforcement;

Development of Social Security Benefits application process for incarcerated mentally ill, preventing homelessness among the mentally ill;

Restructuring Health Services/funding during 1995 crisis from inpatient-based reimbursement to outpatient access/treatment.

Americanism

"Let's roll", remember that? On 9/11 the passengers on Flight 93 decided to go down fighting. They managed to bring the airplane down in a field in Pennsylvania rather than allow the terrorists to complete their mission. They sacrificed their lives. They were called heroes.

Fourteen years later Dr. Ben Carson is being attacked by the very sensitive, deeply feeling and very sincere Democrats for being insensitive, anti-semitic and blaming the victims. Dr. Carson commented that if the Jews in Europe had guns, perhaps the Nazis would not have been able to murder so many. Dr. Carson's comment was called "historically inaccurate", but who knows what that means. One historical truth is that when the Jews in Poland were put into a ghetto in Warsaw and managed to smuggle in a few guns, they held off the Germans for over a month. The German army had to move troops from the front line in order to regain control of the Jews in the Warsaw ghetto.

Dr. Carson was further castigated for saying he would not have stood quietly at UCC in Oregon while the shooter calmly killed people. Dr. Carson said he would fight back, throw things, and even rush the shooter. He acknowledged that he might have died, but he would have died fighting for his life.

Basically Dr. Carson's comments are all about having a plan. Bill and I have always had a plan that outlined what we would do in case of an emergency. We are prepared if someone attacks us or enters our home with intent to do harm. We plan to defend ourselves.

Americans are and have always been an independent people. We learned a long time ago that in order to remain independent and in charge of our future, individuals and our nation must have a plan and the will to defend ourselves and our country from those who would do us harm. These are American values, and God Bless Dr. Carson for speaking up and fighting back against those who determinedly and repeatedly work to constrain our liberty and destroy our independence.

Legislation

New Laws Thanks to Governor Brown, there are many new laws that have significant impact on all Californians. Unfortunately several of these new laws were ones that the CFRW was working against. Below is a bad batch of bills that the Governor signed last week.

ABx2 15 (Eggman, D): "Right to Die"- Governor Brown claimed that he does not have the "right" to deny others the "right to die". The sad fact is that everyone already has this right, but now the state can help you along your way. What is dangerous is that this bill claims to afford people "options", when in fact, it does quite the opposite. Now that you can legally kill yourself with the state's help, those with disabilities or those who feel they might be a burden, financial or otherwise, will now feel the pressure of this new "option". The fact that the legislature had to pass this bill through a special session and not through the ordinary avenues, where it originally failed, is disturbing. That alone should have triggered a veto from Governor Brown. We are already seeing the affects of the slippery slope in Oregon, where those with severe depression are being granted the right to assisted suicide. The supposed "safeguards" in the bill are easy to get around, with no money allocated to training doctors and healthcare providers. The liberal LA Times had an interesting article in opposition to the Governor signing the bill. Read it HERE.

AB 1461 (Gonzales, D): "New Motor Voter"- In another stunning example of not considering unintended consequences, the Governor signed the new "motor voter" law that will register to vote all Californians with a driver's license. Secretary of State Alex Padilla supports this bill because he believes it will help with voter turnout, even though there is no empirical evidence to back that theory up, Instead Californians will have to "opt-out" or be automatically registered to vote. This new law will undoubtedly make it easier for those ineligible to vote but eligible for driver's licenses to register and cast fraudulent ballots.

SB 350 (DeLeon, D): "Renewable Energy"- Although this bill was significantly cut up, SB 350 is still terrible for California. The original bill included a 50% decrease in petroleum use by 2030. Luckily that was amended out, but the bill still includes a requirement that California increase their renewable energy source usage from 1/3rd to 50%. It also includes the expansion of electric vehicle charging stations all over the state. Governor Brown wants his legacy to be "green", without considering the burden it puts on taxpaying Californians. We have some of the highest energy costs in the nation and certainly the highest gas prices in the nation- thanks to the California Air Resources Board. Governor Brown said in a statement this week that he plans to move forward with climate change regulations with the help of CARB, despite how the legislation amended. How does Governor Brown plan to use his executive authority? Unfortu-

Right To Try Act blocked before becoming law despite passage by Assembly, Senate

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Governor Jerry Brown vetoed AB 159, the California Right To Try Act. A signing would have made

California the 25th state to adopt the legislation, which lets doctors prescribe treatments for the terminally ill that are being used in clinical trials, but are still awaiting final approval by the FDA.

Governor Brown wants you dead—literally. He signed a bill to allow “assisted suicide”, to allow people to “die with dignity”. Then he vetoed a bill that would allow the terminally ill to take experimental medicines, to keep them alive. Brown also supports ending the death penalty, while using tax dollars to fund Planned Parenthood’s effort at eugenics—since 1973 they have aborted 13 million black babies (that is called a genocide) nationwide.

“When Governor Brown signed a “Right to Die” law just days ago, he said ‘I do not know what I would do if I were dying in prolonged and excruciating pain. I am certain, however, that it would be a comfort to be able to consider the options afforded by this bill. And I wouldn’t deny that right to others.’ It’s ironic that Governor Brown supports the right to die but not the right to try to live,” said Altman.

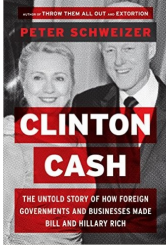

Right To Try is limited to patients with a terminal disease who have exhausted all government-approved treatment options and cannot enroll in a clinical trial. All medications available under the law must have successfully completed basic safety testing and be part of the FDA’s ongoing approval process.”

Want to die? California is the place to be. AB 159, The California Right To Try Act passed by the Assembly and the Senate with overwhelming bipartisan support. The bill was sponsored by Assembly Member Ian Calderon, a Democrat representing communities east of Los Angeles, and Senator Jeff Stone, a Republican from the San Diego area who sponsored companion legislation in the Senate.

Kurt Altman, the director of national affairs and special counsel for the Goldwater Institute, which designed the law said, “Governor Brown has deprived Californians of the right to try to save their lives when their mortality hangs in the balance. We hope that the legislature will work together in a bipartisan effort to override Governor Brown’s veto.”

The following is an explanation of the two billion dollars that has flowed into the Clinton Foundation. You can find all the details in "Clinton Cash" article sent to News & Views by Patti Adair

The Clinton's must have got the idea from the Red Cross, the biggest rip off of them all!!

A Huge Clinton Scam !
Now is the time to get this information out.

Recently, Charles Krauthammer alluded that he had no doubt some of the 30k emails Hillary deleted from her private email server very likely had references to the Clinton Foundation, which would be illegal and a conflict of interest.

The Clinton Foundation is "organized crime" at its finest, and we are financing it.

Here is a good, concise summary of how the Clinton Foundation works as a tax free international money laundering scheme. It may eventually prove to be the largest political criminal enterprise in U.S. history.

This is a textbook case on how you hide foreign money sent to you and repackage it to be used for your own purposes. All tax free. Here's how it works:

1. You create a separate foreign "charity." In this case one in Canada.
2. Foreign oligarchs and governments, then donate to this Canadian charity. In this case, over 1,000 did -- contributing mega millions. I'm sure they did this out of the goodness of their hearts, and expected nothing in return. (Imagine Putin's buddies waking up one morning and just deciding to send untold millions to a Canadian charity).
3. The Canadian charity then bundles these separate donations and makes a massive donation to the Clinton Foundation.
4. The Clinton Foundation and the cooperating Canadian charity claim Canadian law prohibits the identification of individual donors.
5. The Clinton Foundation then "spends" some of this money for legitimate good works programs. Unfortunately, experts believe this is on the order of 10%. Much of the balance goes to enrich the Clinton's, pay salaries To untold numbers of hangers on, and fund lavish travel, etc. Again, virtually all tax free, which means you and I are subsidizing it.

6. The Clinton Foundation, with access to the world's best accountants, somehow fails to report much of this on their tax filings. They discover these "clerical errors" and begin the process of re-filing 5 years of tax returns.

7. Net result -- foreign money, much of it from other countries, goes into the Clinton's pockets tax free and untraceable back to the original donor. This is the textbook definition of money laundering.

Oh, by the way, the Canadian "charity" includes as a principal one Frank Giustra. Google him. He is the guy who was central to the formation of Uranium One, the Canadian company that somehow acquired massive U.S. uranium interests and then sold them to an organization controlled by Russia. This transaction required U.S. State Department approval, and guess who was Secretary of State when the approval was granted. As an aside, imagine how former Virginia Governor Bob McDonnell feels. That poor schlep is in jail because he and his wife took $165,000 in gifts and loans for doing minor favors for a guy promoting a vitamin company. Not legal but not exactly putting U.S. security t risk.

Sarcasm aside, if you're still not persuaded this was a cleverly structured way to get unidentified foreign money to the Clinton's, ask yourself this:

Why did these foreign interests funnel money through a Canadian charity? Why not donate directly to the Clinton Foundation? Better yet, why not donate money directly to the people, organizations and countries in need?

This is the essence of money laundering and influence peddling.

Now you know why Hillary's destruction of 30,000 e-mails was a risk she was willing to take.

Dialing 800 Numbers !!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

If our government can't figure out how to create jobs here, well then it's time to show them how it's done. Bring jobs back to the USA. The gas company serving this area brought their call center back to Phoenix from India last year after numerous customer complaints. What a difference now when you call them...and it created 300 jobs. I know this works because they were so bad that when India answered I wouldn't even deal with them. I'd simply ask to be transferred to a rep. in the U.S. and they would comply.

Now that I know it is the LAW - I will do it for sure
Any time you call an 800 number (for a credit card, banking, Verizon, health and other insurance, computer help desk, etc.) and you find that you're talking to a foreign customer service representative (perhaps in India, Philippines, etc.), please consider doing the following:
After you connect and you realize that the customer service representative is not from the USA (you can always ask if you are not sure about the accent), please, very politely, say, "I'd like to speak to a customer service representative in the United States"

The rep might suggest talking to his/her manager, but, again, politely say, "Thank you, but I'd like to speak to a customer service representative in the USA."

YOU WILL BE IMMEDIATELY CONNECTED TO A REP IN THE USA. That's the rule and the LAW.

It takes less than one minute to have your call re-directed to the USA. Tonight when I got redirected to a USA rep, I asked again to make sure - and yes, she was from Fort Lauderdale ..

Imagine what would happen if every US citizen insisted on talking to only US phone reps from this day on? Imagine how that would ultimately impact the number of US jobs that would need to be created? If I tell 10 people to consider this and you tell 10 people to consider doing this - see what I mean... it becomes an exercise in Viral Marketing 101.

Remember: The goal here is to restore jobs back here at home - not to be abrupt or rude to a foreign phone rep. You may even get correct answers, good advice, and solutions to your problem.

(article submitted by Stacey Conti)

This is an Op-Ed piece from the Washington Post written by Ken Cuccinelli, president of Senate Conservatives Fund and the former attorney general of Virginia.

Since there has been much evasion and obfuscation about Hillary Rodham Clinton's email use, it seems appropriate to step back and simply review what we know in light of the law. It's also instructive to compare Clinton's situation to arguably the most famous case of our time related to the improper handling of classified materials, namely, the case of Gen. David Petraeus.

Instead of turning his journals — so-called “black books” — over to the Defense Department or CIA when he left either of those organizations, Petraeus kept them at his home — an unsecured location — and provided them to his paramour/biographer, Paula Broadwell, at another private residence. (None of the classified information in the black books was used in his biography.)

On April 23, Petraeus pled guilty to a single misdemeanor charge of unauthorized removal and retention of classified documents or materials under 18 USC §1924. Many in the intelligence community were outraged at the perceived “slap on the wrist” he received, at a time when the Justice Department was seeking very strong penalties against lesser officials for leaks to the media

According to the law, there are five elements that must be met for a violation of the statute, and they can all be found in section (a) of the statute: “(1) Whoever, being an officer, employee, contractor, or consultant of the United States, and, (2) by virtue of his office, employment, position, or contract, becomes possessed of documents or materials containing classified information of the United States, (3) knowingly removes such documents or materials (4) without authority and (5) with the intent to retain such documents or materials at an unauthorized location [shall be guilty of this offense].”

The Petraeus case meets those conditions. Does Clinton's?

Clinton originally denied that any of her emails contained classified information, but soon abandoned that claim. So far, 150 emails containing classified information have been identified on her server, including two that included information determined to be Top Secret.

She then fell back on the claim that none of the emails in question was “marked classified” at the time she was dealing with them. The marking is not what makes the material classified; it's the nature of the information itself. As secretary of state, Clinton knew this, and in fact she would have been re-briefed annually on this point as a condition of maintaining her clearance to access classified information.

Then there's location. Clinton knowingly set up her email system to route 100 percent of her emails to and through her unsecured server (including keeping copies stored on the server). She knowingly removed such documents and materials from authorized locations (her authorized devices and secure government networks) to an unauthorized location (her server).

Two examples demonstrate this point.

When Clinton would draft an email based on classified information, she was drafting that email on an authorized Blackberry, iPad or computer. But when she hit “send,” that email was knowingly routed to her unsecured server — an unauthorized location — for both storage and transfer.

Additionally, when Clinton moved the server to Platte River Networks (a private company) in June 2013, and then again when she transferred the contents of the server to her private lawyers in 2014, the classified materials were in each instance again removed to another unsecured location.

Next we have the lack of proper authority to move or hold classified information somewhere, i.e., the “unauthorized location.”

While it's possible for a private residence to be an “authorized” location, and it's also possible for non-government servers and networks to be “authorized” to house and transfer classified materials, there are specific and stringent requirements to achieve such status. Simply being secretary of state didn't allow Clinton to authorize herself to deviate from the requirements of retaining and transmitting classified documents, materials and information.

There is no known evidence that her arrangement to use the private email server in her home was undertaken with proper authority.

Finally, there's the intent to “retain” the classified documents or materials at an unauthorized location.

The very purpose of Clinton's server was to intentionally retain documents and materials — all emails and attachments — on the server in her house, including classified materials.

The intent required is only to undertake the action, i.e., to retain the classified documents and materials in the unauthorized fashion addressed in this statute. That's it.

It borders on inconceivable that Clinton didn't know that the emails she received, and more obviously, the emails that she created, stored and sent with the server, would contain classified information.

Simply put, Mrs. Clinton is already in just as bad — or worse — of a legal situation than Petraeus faced.

Does this mean she'll be charged? FBI Director James Comey has a long history of ignoring political pressure. So it's likely that the FBI will recommend prosecution, and then it will be up to President Obama's Justice Department to decide whether to proceed. Stay tuned.

“Thou shalt not speak ill of any fellow Republican”

(Our Ronald Regan’s 11th commandment)—THE LIBERALS ARE FOLLOWING THIS RULE TO THE LETTER—WHY DON’T WE?

McDonald’s announces Its Answer to $15 an Hour Minimum Wage – Touch-Screen Cashiers

McDonalds Self-service kiosks will expand to at least 2,000 locations in 2015...This is exactly what the left pushed for. Fast food chains were never meant to be a place for someone to raise a family of 6. They were to be part time positions with some full-time advancements. Mostly the fast food restaurants were for school aged kids, to learn how to interact with people, with a job, to offer spending money, and to begin responsibility learning for their future. The part time position was not intended to pay for a house, it is a stepping stone to move on...

$15.00/hr x 8 hrs= $120/day x 5 days= $600/week x 52 weeks = $31,200/year!!

Of course when this happens, like in Los Angeles , the poor and unskilled workers will go on unemployment, then on Welfare, and cost American workers more to support them.

McDonald’s recently came out with their answer to those that want $15/hr pay. Robots!

Many other food chains AND now RESTAURANTS alike are now switching over to kiosks/touchscreens to replace their cashiers, and servers too! For the same reasons as McDonalds is making this move worldwide, these businesses simply cannot afford to operate and pay your demanded minimum wage of $15 per hour plus benefits to their workers/servers!

Got any other bright ideas Mr. Obama? Directly from YOUR rhetoric and demands against Americas private businesses, you and your minions just singlehandedly put 10’s of thousands of minimum wage workers nationwide on the unemployment line!

In addition Mr. Obama, YOU have caused these minimum wage jobs to be permanently eliminated and swept away from America’s workplace FOREVER!

Why California Should Position Itself as a Mecca for the Poor

Congratulations California. Many cities and counties are implementing a $15 an hour minimum wage. In San Fran alone, this will cost 15,200 jobs. Want poor people? Kill their opportunity for a job. The $6 billion a year “temporary tax” given to us by Guv Brown and his campaign manager—the Democrat Republicans love—Steve Glazer—will again be on the ballot next year—this time it will be $9 billion a year for fifteen years! Want poverty? Raise the taxes. Remember, every dollar of taxation is a dollar less of freedom.

“But in California, our poor cities don’t lose people. To the contrary, they are magnets, drawing new people and maintaining strong population growth. Fresno, our poorest large city, had 392,000 people in 1995 and 520,000 now. Bakersfield has grown from 185,000 in 1990 to 363,000 today. Stockton and San Bernardino grew in population, even as they slid into bankruptcy, and they’re still adding population post-bankruptcy. The dynamic extends beyond cities to rural places; California’s two poorest counties, Imperial and Tulare, have both doubled their populations since 1978.”

California is known as a State for the rich, the poor and the illegal alien. Our middle class is moving out as fast as possible. If you like poverty, California is for you.

L.A. under “state of emergency” for homelessness

October 5, 2015 By Stephen Frank

Did you know that there are so many homeless in a town of three million people, that the City Council had to declare an emergency. They claim it will take $100 million for many years to solve the problem. Is it a coincidence that the City is promising to build an Olympic Village for the 2024 Olympics, at a cost of $1.5 billion? Mayor Garcetti could “claim” that after the Olympics the Village could be turned into a massive dorm for the homeless. At $100 million a year, that means the taxpayers of Clovis will pay about one billion dollars for the failures of the Los Angeles government, run for a generation by Democrats. “Garcetti wrote that he has been working with the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, Home for Good, the Los Angeles

Homeless Services Authority and others to develop a “separate but coordinated” approach for the city and county that will be rolled out over the coming weeks.

“My goal is for these strategies to yield the necessary investments, including $100 million each year for permanent supportive housing, rapid re- housing, and interim housing for homeless people, Garcetti wrote.

Why are they refusing to tell the truth—government policies caused the problems of the homeless.

More than 25,000 people are homeless within the city of Los Angeles, according to the latest 2015 count by the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority. Countywide, homelessness has risen 12 percent since 2013’s count, from 39,461 to 44,359 people homeless.
